Fall 2013

My favorite moments have been hanging out and eating with other people at Kimchi Garden after events and meetings. If you haven't experienced eating with a group of 10 or more at Kimchi Garden, then you're doing it wrong.

Words of Advice:

Support Others and Take Initiative

You get out of Ascend what you put in. I know many people who have been through the organization and didn't gain much. They had different priorities and that's perfectly fine. But being in Ascend, you have access to resources and people that many others don't. Take initiative and reach out to professionals and alumni, as many are more than willing to help. Put in the time, support and get to know each other, and grab meals together as much as possible. I'm always down for food!
